Introduction

Welcome to our Seed Potato List for 2022.

2021 will be remembered for the cold start to the spring followed by one of the driest summers for many years, however, by all accounts, this has not had any overall effect on the out turn of potato crops.

The increased demand for seed potatoes and vegetable seeds we experienced during lockdown continued through 2021, with an increasing number of Polycrubs® in the county, adding to the popularity of "growing your own". We trust our variety choice will encourage you to try something different this year and would recommend Sagitta as one to consider.

As always, at the festive season, we will have a great selection of eating potatoes from both local, where ever possible, and Scottish growers. We will also have a limited quantity of local Keppleston Kidney, the first for many years.

Whatever your choice, we trust you find something to your taste.

William Shearer

First Earlies

Casablanca

Casablanca has a smooth white skin and shallow eyes, which will be of interest to exhibitors while it's cooking ability to chip, bake or boil will make it a chef's dream. Trials have found a good resistance to splitting, virus leaf roll, blackleg and blight.

Colleen - Organic

A round oval high yielding multi-purpose variety. Flesh is light yellow and of a fairly dry texture. Has good resistance to disease and foliar blight. Popular choice.

Duke of York

A much favoured old variety, especially in Scotland. Dry mealy texture with a firm pale yellow flesh and pronounced flavour. First introduced in 1891, still an Orcadian favourite.

Premiere

Firm, dry, light yellow fleshed potato with none of the waxiness associated with some first earlies. Good flavour and disease resistance. Popular choice.

Red Duke of York

A red skinned variant of Duke of York. First appeared in 1942. Slightly earlier than Duke of York.

Rocket

Produces very early firm waxy tubers. Particularly suited to growing under polythene or in poly tunnels for the earliest crops.

Swift

Extra early Caithness bred variety. Produces good crops in as little as 7 to 8 weeks. Tubers are round oval with a waxy white flesh. Ideal for forcing.

Second Earlies

British Queen

An oval white variety which first appeared in 1894. A dry mealy variety with excellent old fashioned potato taste. Susceptible to blight.

Charlotte

French bred variety and first introduced in 1981 for the early salad potato market. It has a pear shape with a tender creamy yellow flesh which remains firm. Delicious hot or cold.

Edzell Blue

A round blue variety with a snow white floury flesh. Has a good resistance to drought, powdery scab and dry rot. Susceptible to blight. This old favourite was unavailable to us last year due to a poor crop. However, we have been assured of a small allocation for this season. Very limited.

Kestrel

Smooth skinned oval variety with attractive violet eyes. A creamy, fleshed, fairly dry textured potato with a pleasant flavour.

Orla

This recent introduction is an oval to long oval variety producing medium to large tubers. It has a good skin finish with shallow eyes and a light yellow flesh. Orla has an excellent resistance to tuber and foliar blight.

Sagitta - New for 2022

A round golden skinned variety with shallow eyes, popular with the chip shop trade due to its high dry matter and fluffy texture. Great for roasting and mash and can be boiled well too. Recommended.

Sharpes Express

Another old favourite introduced ten years after the Duke of York. Pear shaped with a white flesh and smooth skin. An excellent variety but susceptible to disease. First introduced in 1901.

Vitabella

A new oval early/second early producing excellent crops. The white skin appears with darker areas at lifting with the skin easily removed with handling. Lightly boil for 20 minutes to retain their firm texture and buttery taste. Excellent for chips. Vitabella are ready, if conditions are right, 14 to 16 weeks after planting. Vitabella's tall foliage may make it less suitable in exposed conditions. Despite this it has very good blight resistance. Recommended.

Wilja

A high yielding Dutch bred variety which first appeared in 1972. It has good culinary qualities including chips and baking. Moderately firm slightly dry texture with a good resistance to blight.

Main Crop

Blue Belle

This recent introduction is making a return to our list by popular demand. Blue Belle produces heavy crops of smooth, oval tubers with creamy-white skin beautifully marked around the eyes with blue patches. Can be boiled, mashed or baked. Ideal choice for the exhibition grower.

Cara

Smooth skinned variety with pink shallow eyes. Cara has a floury white flesh and recommended for baking. Excellent cropper with a good resistance to blight.

Desiree

A long red skinned variety maturing as an early main crop. Produces a high yield of good sized tubers which are of a waxy texture. An excellent variety for boiling and baking which rarely discolours after cooking. Has a good resistance to drought, gangrene, dry rot, powdery scab and bruising.

Heidi Red - Organic - New for 2022

This newcomer to the list was developed and bred on Luneburg Heath in Northern Germany. It has a red skin and matching red flesh that retains its colour when cooked. With its waxy texture it is perfect for boiling, steaming, roasting or mash to add colour to any meal.

Kerrs Pink

A floury potato with soft creamy white flesh and excellent flavour. Very popular in Ireland and with Shetlanders, despite its deep eyes.

King Edward

This well known variety first appeared in 1902. It has an oval to kidney shape and is partly red, mostly at the crown end. The cream white floury flesh rarely discolours on cooking.

Maris Piper

A good all round table potato with a dry floury creamy flesh. Good flavour and rarely discolours after cooking. Much favoured by chippers.

Mayan Scapa

Mayan varieties (phureja varieties) are direct ancestors of the first potatoes ever discovered in South America. These varieties may not produce massive crops, but they have a flavour all of their own. They also cook in two thirds of the time of normal varieties. Mayan Scapa is a long oval type yellow skinned variety with a dense yellow flesh, which is described as both sweet and morish. Delicious hot or cold. Recommended.

Scapa, as the name suggests, has strong Orkney links. This Scottish bred variety is a cross of Mayan Gold and Mayan Twilight and is owned by James Thorburn of Farewell Farms, South Ronaldsay where some of the stock is produced. It is now commercially available worldwide with producers as far afield as Australia.

Picasso

An attractive round, oval variety with pink shallow eyes. Tubers are uniform producing a very high yield. Flesh is cream and of a firm texture. Excellent all round variety for boiling, baking and roasting. Ideal for exhibition. Bred from Cara.

Record

Another Dutch bred variety which was first marketed in 1925. Although it has lost some of its popularity, it is still widely grown and retains a good disease resistance. A mealy yellow fleshed variety, ideal for chipping.

Robinta - Organic

A short oval red skinned variety with shallow eyes. Flesh is white and of high dry matter. Good resistance to most diseases including foliar blight.

Sarpo Shona

As you would expect, this latest offering from the Sarpo stable has excellent blight resistance. Sarpo Shona is a white skinned early maincrop with a relatively high dry matter making it ideal for chips, mash or simply boil.

Sarpo Axona - Organic

This "sister" to Sarpo Mira was bred in Hungary by Dr Sarvari. The name "Sarpo" is an abbreviation of "Sarvari" and "Potato". The consensus is that both are highly resistant to blight and that Axona has the best flavour of the two. Recommended.

Setanta

First introduced commercially to Orkney by ourselves, this red skinned variant of Rooster has a higher dry matter content. It has an extremely high resistance to foliar blight, gangrene and dry rot. Setanta stores well and its eating quality is excellent. Simply the best all round variety available. Recommended.

Late Main Crop

Golden Wonder

This old favourite from 1906 has a very dry mealy texture with a very pronounced flavour. It requires a long growing season and early boxing is recommended. Careful boiling is necessary to avoid disintegration and best cooked in their skins.

Speciality and Heritage Collection

We are pleased to offer these old favourites from times past. These rare varieties are grown in Scotland under organic conditions and sold as small ware.

Second Early

Shetland Black

This oval variety from our northerly neighbours has a distinctive inky blue/black skin. Flesh is yellow with a ring of purple just under the skin. Exceptionally fine flavour and very nutritious. Best cooked in their skins or steamed to avoid disintegration.

Main Crop

Arran Victory

First appeared in 1918 and named to celebrate the end of the Great War. Oval shape with blue toned skin. A very floury textured variety which is best simmered gently for an exceptionally flavoured fluffy mash.

Late Main Crops

Pink Fir Apple

One of the oldest varieties still in commercial culture (c. 1850). The long pink tubers have a tendency to poke out of the side of the drills and late season hoeing up may be necessary. It retains its new potato taste throughout the season. Best cooked in their skins. Prone to blight.

Taster Packs

We are pleased to introduce these taster packs for you to try alongside your old favourites. Contents vary from 8 to 10 tubers per pack.

Alouette

Sensory taste winning variety. Red skin, oval tubers and good all rounder. High blight resistance. Recommended.

Caledonian Rose - New for 2022

Strong red skin with yellow flesh. Resistant to eel worm. Oval good all rounder.

Salad Blue

Dark blue skinned vigorous main crop with blue floury flesh. Good all round novelty variety.

Purple Eyed Seedling

A versatile second early with yellow skin with purple splashes. Best for boiling and mashing.

Potatoes from Tubers

On receipt of your tubers, place them with the 'rose end' (shoot buds) uppermost, in trays in a frost-free, light position, to encourage the formation of sturdy shoots, which won't be too spindly, over the next few weeks. An egg tray is ideal.

Planting can be carried out from late March onwards, but earlier plantings are at greatest risk from damage by frost, as the young, tender shoots emerge. Space the tubers around 30cm (a foot) apart, slightly further for the main crop types. Distance between the rows is 60-80cm and planting depth about 10-15cm.

Potatoes will tolerate a wide range of soil types; to reduce the risk of disease build-up, it is best to rotate the crop on at least a three-year cycle. Soil with a good organic content, and a sunny aspect, is best.

If the emerging shoots are threatened by frost, draw soil over them, or protect with straw or fleece. Earth up at around 25cm high, by drawing soil up around the stems. As the crop develops, water generously in dry weather, to ensure a good crop, and to stop tubers going soft during development.

Harvesting times are: July for earlies (as the flowers open)
August for second earlies
September for main crops (as the tops die off and wither)

Storage of the main crop varieties, allow the skins to dry for a few hours before sacking them up, otherwise they're more likely to rot during storage.

We always carry a stock of second-hand jute sacks. Ideal for storing your potato crop.

Loose Onion Sets

Choose a sunny, well drained site. It's possible to grow onions on heavy soil, but drainage should be improved prior to planting or, try raised beds. Onions, garlic and shallots prefer fertile soil, but don't require much nitrogen, so avoid using freshly manured soil. Instead prepare your planting area well in advance of the planting season.

Plant 3" to 4" apart, leaving a hoe width between rows. Cover sets so the necks are just protruding above the soil.

Alpha

Alpha is the earliest ripening brown onion supplied in spring that is ready for harvesting at least 4 weeks before any other variety. Heat treated, Alpha can be planted in late February, if conditions allow, without fear of bolting. Alternatively, sets can be potted up into small pots for transplanting later.

Red Baron

An excellent, very dark red coloured flat-round onion with rings right to the centre, best planted late. Ideal for salads.

Sturon

An RHS Award of Garden Merit variety producing good sized semi-round bulbs, which store well. Our best seller.

Turbo

Compared to Sturon, Turbo has the ability to keep longer and produce high yields.

Centurion F1

An impressive large hybrid variety producing a heavy early crop of uniformly globe-shaped bulbs, with even skin colour. Excellent for eating or the show bench.

Loose Shallots

Plant shallots in rows in any firm, well drained soil in full sun. Prepare the planting area several weeks in advance by forking in some well rotted garden compost to improve fertility and drainage. Avoid planting shallots in freshly manured ground. On particularly wet land, try planting in raised beds. Plant the bulbs so that the tip of the bulb is just protruding above the soil surface. Leave a space of 7" between each bulb and 12" between rows.

Golden Gourmet

Golden Gourmet can be planted in very early spring. It has a mild flavour which makes it ideal for salads and pickling. A firm favourite.

Red Sun

An attractive red tinged skin variety, producing good yields of crisp, white fleshed bulbs of excellent flavour for cooking or salads. Bulbs show good storage potential.
